Jacopo Riccioni

I started working on web and multimedia at the end of the 90s, working as an employee for Euro.Runner, at the time one of the most important web agencies in Bologna.

Since the early 2000s, I started managing complex web projects as a webmaster for Mollusco & Balena.

In 2005 I start freelancing and since then I work directly with companies, individuals and public administrations, giving advice in communication and promotion, using new technologies and the web.

Over the years I have worked with agencies and professionals in different sectors and contexts.

I graduated in product design from the Academy of Fine Arts in Bologna and I did a 10-month interchange at EON Reality.

Thanks to my passion and constant training, I have also gained extensive experience in the fields of photography, video editing and post-production, design, 3D, Ar and VR..
